Directions: Choose a partner in your class. Write a speech about moral behavior to share with others in your class. Begin by choosing for your theme a particular moral lesson, such as the necessity of taking personal responsibility, the importance of respecting other's beliefs, or the need to resolve conflicts peacefully. Decide next how you want to persuade or motivate your audience. For example, do you want to threaten punishment, appeal to their sense of fairness, or promise rewards? Remember to use the concept of "thesis & antithesis" to emphasize your points. You and your partner must sign off on the final copy. Accuracy 34% Completeness 33% Neatness 33%
