Name _____ Class _____ Date _____ Score _____

Language Arts 10 Writing Exercise WS 10

Directions: You are an author of imaginative short stories. Perhaps, you have read or heard about Jonathan Swift (1667-1745) and his work titled Gulliver's Travels. If not, research using online resources this fascinating, imaginative piece of literature. Then, write an imaginative piece of your own in which YOU are the main character and where you are very different from those around you...different in a significant way. Follow the requirements for all good short stories...setting, character development, plot (with building of conflict), climax and resolution. Have a moral to the story! Remember to use extensive dialogue with proper punctuation and be DESCRIPTIVE throughout the story. This should be your final copy, free of all errors in grammar and punctuation. Give your story a title:

_____

MORAL: